'At this point' you are continuing on my case and have shared privileged information following me asking you not to.

Your discussion with a Senior Advisor following me asking you to recuse you for gaslighting me pertaining to the relevance of my disability... then I want that Senior Investigator's name to make a complaint because either he or you have lied.

I have requested a change of investigator after you ignored important information relating to my disability and you have afforded me no accommodations.

So therefore, refer me to him or provide me his details to submit a complaint against him.

You Mr Quirke, give the Ombudsman's office a bad name.

So you must transfer my case like I have told you to.

True or false?

Dear Mr Mac Liatháin

At this point I am simply dealing with the initial phase of your complaint and once you provide the requested documentation to show that you have completed the public bodies complaints process your complaint can be then assigned to a new caseworker. I have discussed this with the Senior Investigator in the Office and until such time as you provide evidence of having completed the public bodies complaints process I will continue to deal with the matter.

Regards,

Barry.

I already requested a new Investigator to handle my complaint Barry after your gaslighting, please advise your superior of that request and get in touch via a new investigator. You just said it took you two days to re-read my attachments.

I do expect a basic level of reading comprehension. You work for us, members of the public.

The Ombudsman would not be proud of your gatekeeping.

Dear Mr Mac Liatháin

Following receipt of your emails yesterday I asked a colleague to also examine the documents you provided but following that the position remains the same. In order for this Office to investigate this matter we will need you to provide specifics on the details of your complaint and evidence of your engagement with the University's formal complaints process.

Regards,

Barry.

My complaint is available from their emails servers, the complaint is against the Disability Office. Ask them if I complained and why.

I am hindered by my disability and will not retraumatise myself as someone on disability allowance without given due accommodations for my disability of CPTSD.

My lecturers of maths have my email with PDF and complaint outlining how the Disability Advisor of DKIT has hindered my education and my recovery from homelessness.

Feel free to get in touch with them, they are CCed and they have my permission to get in touch with you.

Would you not agree, Barry, regardless of typical processes that my disability of CPTSD is relevant to this response of mine.
